

Theresa Behenna is a motivational keynote speaker and acclaimed international pianist that has been helping people upgrade their thinking, improve communications and deliver excellent customer service since 1998. Her entertaining, upbeat programs provide a unique learning experience for audiences that have resulted in positively memorable events for associations and corporate giants like EXXONMOBIL that wrote: "Your keynote presentation was engaging, inspiring, practical and funny!"

Theresa's passion and spontaneous humor stem from over 20 years as a professional entertainer that began as a piano player in a pub in her native country Australia and culminated in performing at the 2006 Olympics in Torino. Traveling the world as a musician/small business owner, Theresa's experience in communicating with different cultures, adapting to changing markets and appearing before celebrities, gives her the distinct ability to combine practical content with dynamic entertainment to produce positive change.

Oh wait. Theresa is funny too. She shares hilarious compelling stories, plays an amazing piano and involves audiences in fun exercises that maximizes engagement, increases memory retention, relieves stress, energizes and uplifts attendees.....no worries, Mate!

As a member of the National Speakers Association, Theresa won the John Wolfe Award for speaking excellence in 2007 and served on the Houston board for many years.

Her piano CD "Songs for Friends" is a popular selling album of Broadway hits, soft rock and movie themes.

Theresa lives in Houston where she has yet to sound anything like a Texan 'coz she's too busy putting another shrimp on the Barbie.
