

John Bell's huge success as a motivational school and educational conference speaker is due to his extensive experience and his level of knowledge. Quite simply, he is considered to be an expert in his field of giving motivating talks to teachers and students worldwide. He empowers people to walk tall.

John Bell's work as an education consultant over the last 25 years has put him at the forefront of collating best practices in education. Integral to his on-going research, he annually interviews teachers and pupils, engages in action research, and analyses factors that drive or impede successful education. Headteachers and high-level clients who invite him to share his findings at their educational event, seminar, convention or conference soon discover he has a special ability to provide important information in a motivating, educational, inspirational and entertaining way.

John's dedication and growing expertise as an education and school speaker has led him to conduct primary research into staff and student behaviour. solving and achieving success.

An expert on motivation and education, John is very popular with younger audiences and gives a discounted fee for motivational talks to students at educational establishments such as schools, colleges and universities.

As a Master of Education and former government Curriculum Development and Evaluation Inspector he is also regularly engaged as a motivational speaker at educational events for teachers and lecturers.

Those who speak for a living, can be very critical of speakers who present at their meetings and conferences. This is why John Bell has quickly become the most popular speaker at UK educational events. The standard of content and presentation skills...

John Bell

Speech Topics

- Teambuilding
- Sales
- Peak Performance
- Negotiating
- Motivation
- International Speakers

Testimonials

"Thank you so much for your talk last week. Staff from all areas of the school found it inspiring and fun to listen to. Many wished you could have stayed longer. one said she could have listened to you all evening and this was, as you noted after a long day"

- Hollywater School, Mill Chase Road, Bordon.

"John Bell stepped in at short notice to present a keynote speech at the end of our primary headteacher conference. Headteachers are not always the easiest of audiences, but all enjoyed John's enthusiastic presentation which effectively blended information with humour whilst challenging us to reflect on the impact of our own behaviour in school. John provided a thought provoking and entertaining end to the conference; as a result all the delegates left in a very positive frame of mind"

- Chair Dorset PHA.