EXECUTIVE
SPEAKERS BUREAU

Ron Galloway is an author from Augusta, Georgia. He researches the intersection of technology and healthcare, with a particular focus on the disruptive impact of artificial intelligence on healthcare delivery. His forthcoming book "Data To Diagnosis" examines the new role of AI in healthcare diagnostics. His book "AI: Clear & To The Point" is a primer on the general subject of AI.

Ron's work has been featured in the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, and New Yorker magazine. He has appeared on CNN, CNBC, the BBC, and Jon Stewart's Daily Show.

He has a graduate of Georgia Tech and has two children.

Testimonials

"He was terrific. Very engaging, high energy early in the morning (a good thing), and he handled the panel very well. All in all, a great session!"

- Assistant Vice President, IHHA.

Ron Galloway

Speech Topics

Technology

Healthcare

Disruption

Business Trends

Artificial Intelligence