

A native of Northern Ireland, David Feherty joined the professional golf ranks and won 10 worldwide events throughout his career. He captained the winning Alfred Dunhill Cup team, played for Europe in the Ryder Cup, and notched top-10 finishes at a PGA Championship and an Open Championship. Feherty then transitioned to broadcasting and began his career as an analyst and on-course reporter. Over the course of 25 years, he has become a New York Times bestselling author and has held high-profile roles with some of the sport's leading networks covering hundreds of marquee events, major championships, and international competitions. He premiered the highly popular talk program Feherty which earned him an Emmy nomination for Outstanding Sports Personality. Throughout the show's 10-year run, he hosted and interviewed nearly 150 different guests and some of the world's biggest names, including four U.S. Presidents, Hollywood celebrities, and global sports legends.

Most recently, David joined the LIV Golf broadcast team to serve as an on-air commentator and co-executive producer of LIV Golf Event Coverage. David is one of the most influential and recognized voices in golf for more than two decades and is known for delivering insight and humor to audiences around the globe. He made his debut at the LIV Golf Invitational Bedminster and also served as a host and producer for an original new series in collaboration with LIV Golf. "His authentic style blends unique perspective, personality, and wit that educates and entertains fans like no other," said Greg Norman, CEO, and Commissioner of LIV Golf. "Following more than 20 years as a player, he brought a new voice to the sport that has transcended golf culture."
