

Sheldon Bowles is a successful entrepreneur, New York Times and BusinessWeek best-selling author, and noted speaker. Mr. Bowles began his career as a newspaper reporter, became Vice President of Royal Canadian securities, and then President and CEO of Domo Gas. With partner Senator Douglas Everett, he built that company into one of Canada's largest retail gasoline chains. At a time when competitors were going self-serve, he swept Domo into success by featuring Jump to the Pump® service with Gung Ho!® employees.

After leaving Domo, Sheldon Bowles, with three partners, turned a small manufacturing plant into a multimillion dollar business. Sheldon now shares with audiences around the world his hard-won knowledge of what works and what doesn't. He coauthored, with Ken Blanchard, the best-selling books Raving Fans®, Gung Ho!®, Big Bucks!, and High Five!

Sheldon Bowles has been called "a customer service legend" by Harvey Mackay, "a master motivator of employees" by Bob Nelson, and a "stimulating and entertaining speaker with great take-home value" by Ken Blanchard. Audiences find him thought-provoking, inspirational, and fun. Business colleagues describe him as having a passion for win-win thinking, action, and success. And friends testify to his ability to see the humor and the lessons of life in any situation. To book Sheldon Bowles call Executive Speakers Bureau at 800-754-9404.

Sheldon Bowles

Speech Topics

- Management
- Leadership
- Customer Service
- Customer Relations Mgmt

Testimonials

"Sheldon Bowles exceeded all expectations."

- U.S. Army.

"A very successful businessman who knows what he's talking about!"

- Great West Financial.