

Wharton and Oxford-educated with dual masters degrees in business and electrical engineering, Alexander Blass is known as the father of crowdfunding™. An internationally acclaimed American innovator who has traveled to 65 countries, Blass is the founder of the $20 billion person-to-person crowdfunding industry, inventing and launching the world's first website of its kind. This life-saving innovation spread rapidly across the globe and garnered worldwide media coverage, helping and inspiring tens of millions of people.

The United States Patent and Trademark Office awarded Alexander Blass a patent for inventing this revolutionary technology. He is also the winner of numerous other awards and distinctions, including being the youngest grand prize recipient of the Daily Record's Top Innovator of the Year Award, which credited him with "revolutionizing charitable giving" when he was only 32 years old.

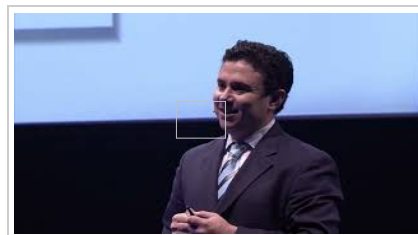

He has appeared in numerous media outlets globally including the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Associated Press, MSNBC, FOX, Businessweek, The Independent, Economic Times, and Times of India.

Alexander Blass is the CEO of the Innovation Institute of America®. A leading expert in innovation and creativity as someone who has "been there and done that," Blass is a highly sought after international keynote speaker at conferences worldwide, as well as a masterclass workshop presenter. His clients are highly diverse across industries and include many of the world's leading companies such as Mastercard, IBM, Saudi Aramco, KPMG, Statoil, Toyota, CIMA, and Solvay. His presentation style is a rare and coveted combination of content-rich (with proprietary frameworks and interesting case studies), high energy, and inspirational, l...

Alexander Blass

Speech Topics

- Technology
- Social Media
- Sales
- Marketing
- Inspiration
- Innovation

Testimonials

"He did a great job of bringing in examples from all over the world. Highly energetic. He got engaged, got into the audience, not just a static speech with Powerpoint slides. Highly recommended!"

- Director of Marketing for the Americas, Travelport.

"We had Alexander Blass as our keynote speaker, who was terrific. He really personalized the event to what we needed and he motivated everybody in the audience, so we really really appreciate it. Thank you very much Alexander!"

- Director of Prepaid Solutions, Mastercard.