

Say the name Erin Brockovich and you think, strong, tough and stubborn. Erin is all that and definitely more. She is a modern-day “David” who loves a good brawl with today’s “Goliaths”. She thrives on being the voice for those who don’t know how to yell. She is a rebel. She is a fighter. She is a mother. She is a woman. She is you and me.

It’s been over 15 years since Julia Roberts starred in the Oscar-winning tour de force, Erin Brockovich. The film turned an unknown legal researcher into a 20th-century icon by showcasing how her dogged persistence was the impelling force behind the largest medical settlement lawsuit in history. First and foremost, thank you so very much for coming to Genentech and speaking in front of the Admins. You have definitely inspired me from when I saw the movie and read about you. I realize that I don’t know you as a person, but you have everything I wish I had - the confidence to go out there and do it, the courage to stand up for what you believe in and everything else. I’m so happy for you, for what you’ve achieved, what you’re doing and for who you are. Respect is a HUGE thing in life, and thank you for sharing your RAM program as well.

Thank you for going above and beyond what we asked of you by lecturing for longer than you needed to at both events as well as staying afterwards to talk to people. I know others really appreciated that. It shows that you truly care and that you are a down to earth “real” person. Professors and students are still coming up to me to let me know how much they enjoyed your talk. One marketing professor told me today that he believes your Google project will be “revolutionary.”
