

While Howie Mandel has remained a constant force in show business for over 30 years, he has been thrust back in the spotlight as the host of what has become a national phenomenon "Deal or No Deal." The show has become an instant hit and is consistently one of the most watched programs each week. NBC has put the show on both Mondays and Fridays at 8:00 P.M. and the ratings continue to grow each week. The show allows contestants to have a chance of becoming an instant millionaire combining nothing more than instinct with luck.

Howie Mandel's versatile career has encompassed virtually all aspects of the entertainment spectrum, including television, film and stage. From his work on the Emmy-Award winning 'St. Elsewhere', to the international (and also Emmy nominated) 'Bobby's World', Howie has become a mainstay of the American comedy scene.

Howie started his career on a dare during a trip to Los Angeles in 1979. He was at the legendary Comedy Store on amateur night and Howie was coaxed by his friends to get up and try his luck. As fate would have it, there was a producer in the crowd who immediately hired him to appear on the comedy game-show 'Make Me Laugh'. His appearance on the show led to talk show appearances, a stint as Diana Ross' opening act and eventually to the television series, 'St. Elsewhere,' where Howie spent six seasons as 'Dr. Wayne Fiscus' on the award-winning NBC drama.

Howie's Emmy Award-nominated animated children series, 'Bobby's World', ran eight seasons on FOX and now appears in syndication six days a week in 65 countries. As the series' creator and executive producer, Howie was closely involved in its writing, as well ...
