

Keith Sanders is an accomplished speaker who delivers customized training to leaders who want to increase their influence in the workplace. Keith does this by helping managers generate more rapport with the people they supervise, foster stronger relationships in order to encourage cooperation and, ultimately, increase results.

Working in broadcast news has given Keith an incredible insight into how to build effective teams, especially when deadlines are looming and emotions are high. He has reported “live” on the street, generated and developed news stories, and has also supervised staff and trained new personnel in a variety of media and retail situations. These are some of the reasons why his sessions in leadership, creativity and teamwork are always well received. Keith’s ability to think on his feet, to describe complex ideas in simple terms, and to help participants feel at ease with humor make him a favorite with audiences.

Keith sincerely enjoys sharing his expertise with others. While wearing many creative hats in his broadcasting career, he has always strived to be a charismatic, encouraging force in other people’s lives, helping people discover their strengths and reach farther than they ever thought possible. He is a highly sought-after speaker for seminars nationwide and is also available for on-site presentations and conference keynotes.
