

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize and named by The Financial Times as the most influential commentator in America, Dr. Charles Krauthammer has been honored from every part of the political spectrum for his bold, lucid, and original writing -- from the famously liberal People for the American Way (which presented him their First Amendment Award) to the staunchly conservative Bradley Foundation (which awarded him their first $250,000 Bradley Prize).

Since 1985, Charles Krauthammer has written a syndicated column for The Washington Post for which he won the 1987 Pulitzer Prize for distinguished commentary. It is published weekly in more than 290 newspapers worldwide. Krauthammer is also a contributing editor to The Weekly Standard and The New Republic, and a weekly panelist on Inside Washington. He is a contributor to FOX News, appearing nightly on its evening news program, Special Report with Bret Baier. His latest book is Things That Matter: Three Decades of Passions, Pastimes and Politics (October 2013).

Accolades and Historical Impact: For three decades, his influential writings have helped frame the very shape of American foreign policy. He coined and developed The Reagan Doctrine (TIME, April 1985), defined the structure of the post-Cold War world in The Unipolar Moment (Foreign Affairs, Winter 1990/1991), and outlined the principles of post-9/11 American foreign policy in his much-debated Irving Kristol Lecture, "Democratic Realism" (AEI Press, March 2004).
