

Rob Shallenberger is recognized globally as a leading authority on planning and execution. He is widely known for sharing his experience as a US fighter pilot to deliver fun, energetic, and highly impactful keynotes and seminars. Based on the National Bestselling book Becoming Your Best: The 12 principles of Highly Successful Leaders - which includes 40 years of research from peak performing companies - Rob will show your participants how to leverage the 12 principles that propel teams and organizations to the top! From the cockpit to the boardroom, Fortune 500 companies around the world have used his valuable lessons learned as a fighter pilot to ignite their teams and leaders and fuel high performance at every level. For years, he has operated and flourished in a hostile and fast moving environment. During his time in the Air Force, Rob was hand-picked to travel the world with Air Force One as an Advance Agent. He doesn't just talk the talk, he has walked the walk and knows what it takes to be successful in the toughest environments. He is the CEO of Becoming Your Best Global Leadership, an award-winning leadership and corporate training company. Rob's keynotes and seminars are focused on helping teams and leaders bring out their very best in every area of their life. He will share new, cutting-edge tools and processes that can have an immediate impact on behavioral change, revenue, net profit, employee turnover, customer retention, and morale.
