

“Awesome!” “Hilarious!” “The best we’ve ever had!” The accolades for this world-class performer go on and on. But whether he’s busting ribs with his uproarious, family-friendly standup, or inspiring with a powerful yet laugh-out-loud motivational speech, Mack Dryden is a one-of-a-kind performer who always kills the crowd and thrills his clients.

An engaging performer with a relaxed style, the writer/comedian/actor has appeared on The Tonight Show with both Johnny and Jay, plus dozens of other TV shows and movies, was a staff writer for ABC’s Politically Incorrect with Bill Maher, and brings this performing experience to the platform whether he’s performing his unique standup, delivering a hilarious keynote, or Emceeing an awards show or general session. He writes custom comedy for every client, making his presentations even more special, personal, and memorable.

Hundreds of thrilled clients think Mack Dryden is the funniest motivational speaker working today. He has survived everything from the sharks of showbiz, to bouts with two different types of cancer, to a terrifying stay in an African prison—and lived to tell inspiring, motivating and hilarious stories about it all. ## Testimonials

“While we don’t have an official ranking for the number of exclamation points included with customer comments, if we did, Mack would be the hands-down winner in the 14-year history of our event.”

- S.P. Richards Co..

“Mack did an outstanding job. He was funny, motivating, charming, NOT a prima donna and even socialized with us at the dinner the night before - a delightful surprise. He’s the genuine article, and there aren’t many of those around any more.”
