

A veteran comedian and television personality who has built a reputation as the go-to choice for business humor, Scott Bloom has hosted hundreds of events over two decades for companies such as FedEx, Ford, IBM, MetLife, and Pfizer. Scott has also hosted his own weekly VH1 series, and recently co-hosted a national simulcast of the Grammy Awards from the Palace Theater.

As the son of a successful salesman, he was exposed to the principles of building a business at an early age. As a comedian, Scott cut his teeth at renowned improv and comedy clubs. And as a self-taught student of psychology, he's explored what makes people tick and has written a book (albeit a farce) on how to get through life. He's uniquely positioned to deliver significant messages on connecting people and making business seriously funny. And who doesn't like to laugh?

Scott Bloom

Speech Topics

- Virtual Keynotes
- Humor
- Emcee
- Comedian

Testimonials

"Sure..you can be good/funny/effective once or twice....but can you be GREAT over & over, every year and every time? Scott Bloom can! He is the Derek Jeter of corporate events! Always great!!!"

- VP, Account Management, Drury Design.

"I was very impressed with Scott's research of our organization. He says he not only wants to walk the walk, but also talk the talk of our company - and he was one of us for the evening. He made our nurses feel special, he made our entire audience laugh and smile, and he interacted with a large group of people that set the tone for a more intimate evening. He was a professional, but also relatable. I enjoyed his ability to understand who we are as an organization and how we function. He did his research and was on point with his message. He is a great host, a fun entertainer and I know our team appreciated his humor and message for us."

- Chief Development Officer, Freeman Health System.

