Testimonials

☐ "Too often in our impatient world we satisfy ourselves with information when what we really seek is deeper knowledge. After ten days in Japan with Michael Veltri, I understood this distinction far better than I had before. As our group explored the richness of Japanese history and culture, Michael's enthusiasm for and experience of Japanese life provided excellent leadership and guidance on our travels. He also challenged us to try a range of new experiences, all of which expanded our horizons and whose lessons I'm still applying in my personal and professional life. Of these, the most important was the value of human connection."
