

Dominic Carter is a TV Political Commentator for Verizon FiOS TV, and has been in the Journalism Business for over 25 years. As a journalist, Dominic Carter believes you are to treat people in the same way that you wish to be treated. Dominic Carter currently lives in New York and decided to go into the television business to be a “voice for the voiceless.” He also is a contributing writer for the Huffington Post. Recently, he covered the 2016 presidential election. His 2008 interview with President-elect Donald Trump, in which Trump praised Hilary Clinton, went viral at the end of the campaign.

Dominic got his Master’s Degree in Broadcast Journalism at Syracuse University. In addition, he received an honorary Ph.D degree from the City University of New York. He started his career in radio, field reporting for WLIB/WBLS then went onto TV reporting 6 years later. Dominic still appears on WABC radio today. He is also proud to be part of the annual “Inner Circle,” a charity organization of NY political reporters. He is also a part of the Screen Actors Guild and has appeared in the movie “Inside Man,” directed by Spike Lee.
