

Futurist, entrepreneur and innovation strategist, Kian Gohar helps inspire the world's largest companies to harness disruptive trends transforming the industry in the next decade and beyond. Kian is a master facilitator and has coached the C-suite of over 40 companies in the Fortune 500 on innovation, technology disruption, exponential thinking, and leadership.

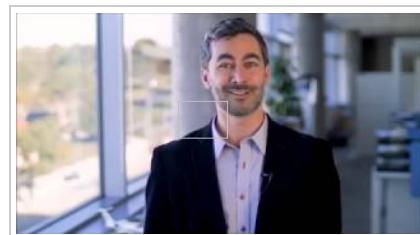

Kian is the founder of Geolab, an innovation collaborative based in Los Angeles that designs innovation projects for global organizations. He is also Founding Executive Director of IPP, the world's leading ecosystem for corporate innovation and a joint venture of the XPRIZE Foundation & Singularity University. He has presented at and emceed leading conferences worldwide, including at the World Economic Forum, SXSW, and the Tokyo Motor Show.

Kian lives, eats, breathes and laughs innovation: he's been a venture capitalist, business school professor, and serial start-up founder. Kian speaks 5 languages, is a graduate of Northwestern, the London School of Economics, and Harvard Business School.

Kian Gohar

Speech Topics

- Technology
- Leadership
- Innovation
- Futurist
- Future of Work
- Entrepreneur

Testimonials

“Kian’s keynote on exponential technology at our Economic Summit was both thrilling and thought provoking. His style of delivery is engaging and approachable, and he blends intelligence and humor to relay complex ideas in a straightforward manner that appealed to our audience of business executives and elected officials.”

- President and CEO, Greater Portland Inc.

“Kian’s keynote presentation at our annual T11 conference in Beijing in front of 3000 attendees provided a fascinating overview of the cutting edge of technology and its impact on data driven business models.”

- Chief Strategy Officer, Talking Data China.