

As a former, top advertising executive, Scott Shellstrom knows that creativity is more than an art, it's a skill. His skills have placed him on some of New York City's most prominent improv comedy stages, and his paintings on some of the most prestigious gallery walls. He knows how to perform, both as a television host on the Travel Channel, as well as the first white guy on Soul Train.

Scott's presentations will unite and excite teams as they collaborate and support one another using proven techniques of improvisational theater. He ignites productivity and inspires unique solutions to everyday challenges. He teaches how to prosper from perspective and see more than what the picture first portrays. (And if that wasn't enough, just wait for his masterpiece painting... done in four minutes... upside down.)

Testimonials

Thank you for a wonderfully creative and entertaining presentation. Your presentation was well received and empowered our audience to think about rediscovering their own natural tools, often neglected like: openness, curiosity and creativity. Your inspiring speech, easy to follow techniques and creative approach, not only encouraged our audience to step up and out of their shells, but transformed those who lacked confidence, into true believers. I look forward to you returning and inspiring us to new heights.``

- Chair, Marketing Executives Networking Group.

``Scott Shellstrom ROCKED IT! He was FANTASTIC!. If you're planning a meeting, hire Scott Shellstrom. Don't even think twice!``

- Attendee.

Scott Shellstrom

Speech Topics

- Teambuilding
- Motivation
- Entertainment
- Creativity & Innovation

