

Shaili Chopra is the founder of SheThePeople.TV, India's biggest platform focus on real women with real stories. She is an award-winning journalists whose work has been recognized in India and globally and has covered key events like Davos, G20, and the 2012 American Election. Putting her television strengths to setting up India's first dedicated online channel for women, she has filled an important gap in media, that of creating a focused space putting spotlight on women and their needs.

Shaili is an award-winning journalist, who presented the primetime 9 pm show on India's foremost business television ETNOW and interviews global leaders like Investor Warren Buffett, IMF boss Christine Lagarde and sport star Tiger Woods. She moderated big discussions with top CEOs and politicians and conducts big global interviews. She is one of the most trusted faces in Indian business journalism and recently got the Ramnath Goenka Award for Excellence in Journalism, considered the highest honor for journalists in India.

Shaili's hugely successful golf show is Tee Time With Shaili Chopra where she engages with business golfers, pros and celebrity players on the golf course for a 'walk the talk.' It continues even now in a different avatar called Tee Off With Shaili and can be watched here

She has covered events like WEF in Davos, G20, World Retail Summit. She was one of the first journalists to report the Mumbai Terror attacks from Taj on 26/11. Shaili won the News Television Award for the Best Reporter in India in 2007 and later in 2008, her business-golf show won the Best Show Award. She also won the Media Foundation Best Business Anchor Award. In 2010, FICCI awarded her the Young Women's Achiever Award for contribution to media.
