

Charlie Rocket was managing one of the biggest music management companies in the world when he was diagnosed with a brain tumor. Facing death and weighing over 300 pounds, he made the choice to return to his childhood dream of being an athlete. He ended up losing 125 lbs, running 5 marathons, completing an Ironman, and best of all, reversing his brain tumor. To top it off, he was even featured in Nike's biggest Super Bowl commercial of all time called "Dream Crazy", the Colin Kaepernick commercial. Charlie has now dedicated his entire life to making other people's dreams come true through his non-profit the Dream Machine Foundation. He wants to become a new type of millionaire: the one that makes a million dreams come true.

Charlie Rocket helps organizations who are struggling to electrify their teams to stop thinking small, who are overwhelmed by their competition, who are thinking bigger and craving a culture shift in the minds of their team! Too often teams in business find every reason not to go big! IT'S TIME TO SHIFT THAT! YOUR TEAM WILL NEVER THINK SMALL AGAIN!!! Because when your team starts dreaming bigger.... 1 thing happens! GROWTH!!!!
