

Dr. Steve Bedwell is a medical doctor with research training, an obsessive streak and a knack for applying complex scientific data to everyday problems. He's traveled the world teaching and researching in the U.S., Europe, and Australia. He even found himself deep in the African jungle removing an appendix under the illumination from a car headlight! Dr. Steve is also a stand-up comedian with an unparalleled ability to present cutting-edge content on leadership and professional development while being laugh-out-loud funny. This approach, education, and entertainment in equal measure has earned him rave reviews from associations, corporations and healthcare audiences across the country.

Why Book Dr. Steve?

- He's both a medical doctor and a stand-up comedian: You can be confident that Dr. Steve will deliver extensively-researched content in a wildly-enjoyable speech.
- He specializes in savvy audiences who've "heard it all before."
- Dr. Steve will leave your attendees engaged, energized and more open to your other speakers.

Testimonials

Great! Immediately following his opening keynote, a person came up to me and said "That was worth every penny of what I spent on the conference!"

- VP, Education & Marketing, WHA.

He was awesome!!! Easy to work with both leading up to the event and on-site. Did a great presentation that was entertaining and made the crowd laugh, plus it was interactive and had a message. He received a standing ovation. And it helped that he is a physician and could relate to a profession that works in the OR - that alone sold the crowd.
