

Millions of parents and health professionals have turned to Dr. Larry Kutner for help making sense of their children in today's world. Whether through his books, newspaper columns, magazine columns, television reports, call-in radio programs, or his speeches and workshops, Dr. Kutner provides insights and perspective into the changing challenges faced by both parents and children.

He is the author of Parent-Child: Getting Through to Each Other, Pregnancy and Your Baby's First Year, Toddlers and Preschoolers, and Your School-Aged Children. Drawing from his impressive combination of professional credentials-- Harvard faculty, Mayo Clinic, New York Times columnist, Emmy Award-winning television producer, --plus his personal experiences as a parent and foster parent, he gives presentations that are highly practical and laced with humor. Audience members leave with information and techniques they can use immediately and in the future. All presentations are followed by a question-and-answer session.
