Testimonials

Your presentation was spot-on for our audience. Of all our guest keynote speakers, your presentation was rated highest in the post-conference survey. It got our audience's attention and made them think hard about how they're going to adapt to these new technologies and their business applications. It's always good when you can surprise an audience with things they did not consider, and you did just that, with highly illustrated, real-world examples.

I'd like to thank you for your excellent presentation on "Leveraging Emerging Technologies to Drive Innovation" which you delivered last month for the Annual meeting of CA's Council for Technical Excellence. I asked you to provide us with material that would be thought provoking for our most advanced technical experts while still understandable for those people who were less familiar with a given technology. You hit the mark squarely stimulating a dynamic discussion involving the full range of our attendees. Your use of video, cartoons, and humor also kept the presentation as entertaining as it was informative. The discussion session that you moderated right after your presentation was equally valuable. You did an excellent job of balancing perceptive responses to participants' questions while encouraging insightful discussion among attendees. It was a delight to work with you. You delivered the results we were looking for, with relatively short notice. I can certainly recommend you for other CA events and for any others who are looking for clear, easy to understand insights on the strategic implications of emerging technologies. Thanks for your help!
